Guteau is getting meaner and more depraved as the arguments draw to a close.

It is perfectly in keeping with the eternal fitness of things, that two new Senators from Iowa are Ohio men.

The brakeman whose negligence caused the fatal calamity at Spuyten Duyvil, was arrested, but has been released on $5,000 bail. If he had obeyed orders there would have been no accident.

Washington dispatches say the President has refused to re-appoint Mr. Keyes postmaster, and has requested Congressman Casswell to send in another name. Mr. Keyes refuses to resign his seat in the assembly.

This is the way the Milwaukee Sunday Graph gets in a good side dig at the editorial: "Mr. Murphy stigmatizes the publication as the 'monopoly organ,' or a gentleman who is juggling $5,000 of railroad money in his pocket, this is a somewhat cheeky assumption. It is, be- lieves, decidedly inconsistent."

There have been rumors and reports at Mr. Horace Bablee, of the Milwaukee Republican, was a candidate for an and could receive the appointment as Minister to Berlin. In answer to this, Mr. Bablee causes to be printed in the Republican, the following editorial note: Mr. Bablee has not been an applicant for the Berlin mission or any other official appointment. The reports on the subject which have recently appeared in some of the newspapers, originated solely in the fertile imagination of the gossamer of the press, and were totally destitute of any foundation in fact."

Last year Governor Cornell achieved a distinction of writing an annual message of several columns in length to the legislature, which did not contain the usual "I." It was the first gubernatorial annual message ever delivered to the legislature body which did not contain that much used and frequently abused pronoun. Governor Cornell's annual message for 1882, nine large columns long, twice as long as that of Governor Rusk's, and in that elaborate document the Governor has again evaded the use of the pronoun "I." It strained several points to make it, it is succeeded, probably at a loss to many, of clearness.

The condition of the matter between the Milwaukee Republican and the Senate is as follows: The hearing on the peremptory injunction issued by Judge Huling in favor of C. W. Felker, was postponed last Saturday, at Oshkosh, on January 28, at 10 o'clock a. m. Judge Allen said he did not think E. H. Abbot had been guilty of any intentional wrong or harm in the telegram sent by him asking that the injunction restraining all parties from holding an annual meeting on January 9th, be modified so as to meet upon an adjournment, although a telegram said all parties had agreed certain stipulations to which Mr. Felker had not agreed. Mr. Abbot has been in suit against Mr. Murphy and all her stockholders, praying for an order restraining them from issuing new stock beginning any more suits in any of the courts in this State.

The New York Tribune Almanac for 1882 has just been published. There is publication in the United States or elsewhere, which within the compass of 9 pages compresses as much information of value to the banker, the business man, the politician, and the intelligent student of the public life of the country its relations to other countries, as the Tribune Almanac. This publication has been printed annually for more than thirty years, and by men in public life is considered the most important and useful work of reference of its size to be found in the country. The present number gives a vast amount of valuable statistics, which can be found in no other single publication except as an abstract of the laws passed at the last Congress; party platforms of 51, the changes in the constitutions of the States; the election of United States Senators; the popular vote for President from 1872 to 1880 inclusive; lists of Presidents and their cabinets; and the principal officers of the executive department, and both branches of Congress; and the census reports of 1880 and a great deal of other information equally valuable. The price of the almanac is 25 cents.

There is no city of its size in the United States where there are so many murders as in Chicago, and there is no city on the continent where justice receives greater satisfaction than in that city which proudly boasts of its mighty enterprise and its unflinching wealth. A murderer in Chicago seldom is punished as the law says murderers shall be. Some two or three years ago, Prince Albert Jones killed his brother in Chicago. He killed him without cause or provocation. He was arrested, almost for a wonder, was tried and convicted of manslaughter. The Judge sentenced him to fifteen years in the penitentiary. Another Judge set his verdict aside, and Jones was granted new trial. A new trial was had, and Jones was convicted of murder, and sentenced for life in the penitentiary. Another Judge set this aside and granted another trial, and next time there is no doubt Jones will be cleared. It was stated in the Gazette about the beginning of the year, that there had been thirty-four murders in Chicago, during 1881, and only four of the murders had been "punished," and not one of them had been hanged. The public men and the business men of that wonderful city, which rose in a day from its ashes, are in a great measure responsible for the fearful character of the criminal jurisprudence of the city.

Special to the Gazette.

MADISON, January 17.—The Senate had session this morning. The resolution was adopted referring the Governor's message to appropriate committees.

Bills were introduced by Senator Hild to appropriate $3,000 to purchase law books for the State Library.

To exempt the Catholic Knights of America, a benevolent insurance company, from taxation.

By Van Schick to authorize the city of Milwaukee to furnish the Milwaukee industrial exposition with free water.

A joint resolution by Senator Crosby, providing for printing 1,000 copies of the State Librarian report.

The Assembly will have a session this evening.

GONE DOWN.

Special to the Gazette.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17.—The British schooner, Weathergauge, with stock and ten passengers, bound from Omoos for Belize, was sunk by a whirlwind off Calron's Point on the night of December 31. Captain Alvarez with the mate and two passengers clung to the masts and were saved, while the others were drowned. The schooner went down bow foremost.

MADISON'S POSTMASTER.

Why Keyes was Not Nominated.

WASHINGTON, January 16.—The Wisconsin papers seem to have fallen into error relative to the Madison postoffice matter. The facts were these: The Senators had nothing to do with the matter. Mr. Casswell recommended the appointment of Mr. Keyes simply because he had the biggest pet. Then it was found that under an old executive order Mr. Keyes could not be postmaster and a member of the Legislature at the same time. He could take his choice, and resign either one he chose. He decided he could not resign from the Legislature. The postmaster general had no discretion in the matter, as will be shown by the following letter to Mr. Casswell:

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Sir: Your inquiry in regard to how long a postmaster can hold the office of postmaster after the acceptance by him of the office of a representative in a State legislature has been considered. I have the honor to call your attention to the executive order in regard to United States officers holding State and Congressional offices, issued by President Grant January 17, 1873. It is found on pages 321 and 322 of Post Laws and Regulations, edition of 1874, and it contains the following language: "And further, that the acceptance or continued holding of any State, Territorial, or municipal office, whether elective or by appointment, by any person holding civil offices as aforesaid, under the government of the United States, other than judicial offices, under the constitution of the United States, will be deemed a vacation of the federal office held by such person, and will be taken to be and will be treated as a resignation by such federal officer of his commission or appointment in the service of the United States."

Under this order, the moment a postmaster accepts such an office a vacancy has actually occurred. Of course, it remains for the President, and not for the department, when the vacancy shall be filled. Very respectfully,

FRANK HATTON,
First Assistant Postmaster General.

The Hon. L. B. Casswell.
MADISON, Wis., Jan. 16.—From letters received here to-night it looks as though Keyes' application for reappointment as postmaster of Madison has been finally rejected by President Arthur. Casswell notifies the various applicants—Keyes, Frank, and Bryant—that the President has directed him (Casswell) to send in some other than Keyes. Casswell accordingly notifies all concerned of the President's order, so that they may proceed to get up a petition. Keyes said, some time ago, that if he did not get the postoffice another term he intended to resign. Nevertheless, it is stated that Casswell will not recommend, Helm and Bryant, with chances favoring Frank.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

LANSING, Ia., Jan. 16.—The chief particulars of the wreck of passenger No. 9 on the Dubuque division at Bridge No. 99, three miles above New Albin, to-day about 12 noon, are as follows: The smoking and ladies cars were precipitated down a twenty-foot embankment owing to the breaking of a wheel, and the occupants were all more or less injured, some seriously. One death—that of a 2-year-old child—has occurred, and it is feared that several others are fatally injured—among the latter a Mr. Erickson, merchant, of Spring Grove, Minn. All told there were twenty-three injured. Conductor W. West, Superintendent Jenkins, and Sprague, of Georgia, Minnesota, shared in the disaster. The two former escaped without serious injuries, and the latter braced up sufficiently to fulfill their engagement here to-night. The train was running at a speed of only about fifteen miles an hour, and no blame is attached to any one concerned. The infant of Mrs. G. Cavanaugh, Milston Wis. is dead.

Answer This.

Did you ever know any person to be ill without inaction of the stomach, Liver or Kidneys, or did you ever know one who was well when there was obstructed or inactive, and did you ever know or hear of any case of the kind that Hop Bitters would not cure? Ask your neighbor the same question.

"HANGING" THE JURY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Among the "outrages" in connection with the Guteau trial is the prediction that Jurymen Bright will "hang the jury" on the ground that Guteau is insane. Bright's father was for some years an inmate of the government asylum for the insane here, and died in that institution.

The same authorities say that the son has always been considered by his intimates, a "very peculiar man."

MONEY MAY SAVE HIM.

MILWAUKEE, January 16.—Gottlieb Engel, the prominent and wealthy young lawyer who was arrested on a charge of forging papers to the extent of about $10,000, some time ago, had a preliminary examination on one of the courts to-day, and was held to answer in the sum of $1,000. Engel's rich relatives are doing everything to prevent prosecution.

Poverty and Distress.

That poverty which produces the greatest distress is not of the purse but of the blood. Deprived of its richness, it becomes scant and watery, a condition termed anemia in medical writings. Given this condition, and scrofulous swellings and sores, general and nervous debility, loss of flesh and appetite, weak lungs, throat disease, spitting of blood and consumption, are among the common results. If you suffer from them, poor blood employ Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which cures the blood and cures these grave affections. Is more nutritive than cod liver oil, and is harmless in any condition of the system, yet powerful to cure. By druggists.

MILWAUKEE EXPOSITION.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 16.—At a meeting of the exposition directors held to-night, R. D. Torrey, of Oshkosh, farmer, manager of the Northern Wisconsin exposition association, was chosen general manager to succeed E. W. Hineks, resigned.

SUICIDE.

ATLANTA, January 16.—William H. Locke, postmaster at Bufala, and arrested on account of irregularities in his accounts, killed himself in jail at Chester, S. C.

Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are sugar coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. No cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. By druggists.

Inauguration Days.

There seems to be a general belief that Gen. Garfield was the first of our Presidents to go into office on a Friday. He was really the third, both John Quincy Adams and Franklin Pierce having had that distinction. To settle the matter we print the list of inauguration days, premising that Washington was not sworn in until April 30, 1789, and that when the 4th of March comes on a Sunday the ceremonies take place the next day:

George Washington	Wednesday, March 4, 1789.
John Adams	Monday, March 4, 1797.
Thomas Jefferson	Wednesday, March 4, 1801.
James Madison	Monday, March 4, 1809.
James Monroe	Thursday, March 4, 1817.
James Polk	Friday, March 4, 1845.
Andrew Jackson	Wednesday, March 4, 1829.
Andrew Johnson	Monday, March 4, 1865.
Martin Van Buren	Saturday, March 4, 1837.
Win. Henry Harrison	Tuesday, March 4, 1841.
John Tyler	Friday, April 4, 1841.
James K. Polk	Tuesday, March 4, 1845.
Zachary Taylor	Sunday, March 4, 1849.
Millard Fillmore	Monday, July 10, 1850.
Franklin Pierce	Friday, March 4, 1853.
James Buchanan	Wednesday, March 4, 1857.
Abraham Lincoln	Monday, March 4, 1861.
Andrew Johnson	Saturday, March 4, 1865.
Ulysses S. Grant	Thursday, March 4, 1869.
Rutherford B. Hayes	Thursday, March 4, 1877.

Superstition About Days.

Friday is universally regarded as a fatal day, and this ill-repute attaches to it throughout the world. Among seasons the prejudice against the day is intense. In order to counteract this feeling in some manner, an English ship-builder once built a vessel, which was begun and finished on Friday, and named "The Friday." It was launched on Friday, also sailed on Friday, but, as if fate had so decreed, it was never heard of more.

But the superstition in regard to days is not confined to Friday—every day in the week is under the influence of good or evil omens. There are many rhymes embodying the particular phases of good or evil which underlie certain events on certain days, of which the following specimens will suffice:

Sunday's child never lacks in place;
Monday's child is fair in face;
Tuesday's child has true grace;
Wednesday's child is full of woe;
Thursday's child is loving and kind;
Friday's child is loving and kind;
Saturday's child will work his living.

Sneeze on a Monday, you sneeze for danger;
Sneeze on a Tuesday, you kiss a stranger;
Sneeze on a Wednesday, you sneeze for a letter;
Sneeze on a Thursday, you sneeze for a friend;
Sneeze on a Friday, you sneeze to your sorrow;
Sneeze on Saturday, your sweetheart is to-morrow;
Sneeze on Sunday, your ship will sail.

The devil will chase you the whole of the week.

Cut your nails Monday, you cut them for news;
Cut them on Tuesday, a pair of new shoes;
Cut them on Wednesday, you cut them for health;
Cut them on Thursday, for something to eat;
Cut them on Friday, you cut them for wool;
Cut them on Saturday, a journey you'll go;
Cut them on Sunday, and cut them for evil.

For all the week long you'll be ruled by the devil.

Couldn't Feel at Home.

"Stranger, have you got some bit of whisky, suthin' that takes the innards right by the collar and makes a man think he's brillin' for a hour after-ward?" asked a gentleman in a butler's suit and a con-skin cap, at a fashionable Brooklyn bar yesterday.

"I think I've got what you want," said the barkeeper. "Try this."

The stranger smelled it and shook his head dolefully.

"Do ye think this would make a man dig up his dead enemies and lick 'em again?" he asked. "Would a sling of this picket get a fellow to induce his mother to murder his wife, and then run for Sheriff, so as to hang the old woman for the crime?"

"I don't know about that," said the barkeeper, "it's pretty strong fluid."

"I know. But is it strong enough to make a man rob his own daughter and then lick the daylight out of her for losin' her money? Would it be what you want, if you wanted to salt your wife down and deal her out in a boarding house for a poor turkey, extra prime? Would you drink it if it felt like burnin' down a church full of children so as to get the nails out of their boots?"

"That's the kind of liquor I want," said the stranger, "but whisky, it's that's what you are after," said the barkeeper, putting out another bottle.

Again the stranger smelled and shook his head sadly.

"I'm surprised at yer, barkeep. Yer don't understand the finer feedin'. I want suthin' that would make me rob the donation box of an orphan asylum. Suthin' that would make me kick a sick woman overboard and pound her with a board afterward. I want liquor that makes a fellow bury his mother alive and plow her under for fertilizer. Suthin' that would make a man set his children to stealin' so he could give 'em away and get witnesses' fees for conviction."

"Have yer got anything of that sort?"

"That's the worst I've got," said the horrified barkeeper. "You can take it or leave it."

"The facts is," explained the stranger, as he poured down half a pint of the material without a shudder: "The facts is, that I live in Dakota, and I was feelin' homesick. So I thought if I could get a taste of the genuine old stuff it would raise my spirits. But that isn't the whisky I wanted. This makes me feel like lendin' money, and it don't do me no good. Good-by, barkeep."

And the homesick stranger turned mournfully away.—Brooklyn Eagle.

In the Australian Bush.

I was terribly frightened one night in Queensland by a dead man riding up to my camp-fire at midnight. I was quite alone. I heard my horse snort, and another answering in the Malaga bushes, so I got up and put wood on, making bright blaze, and presently into the circle of light came a horseman bending over his pommel, with his large straw hat slouched over his eyes. I took my revolver off my saddle and sung out: "Good-night, mate! You travel late. Will you have a drink of tea?"

Not a word of answer. Just then my two dogs, who were snuffing about, set up such a terrible cry, and made me jump again. After a bit I began to open my eyes to the state of affairs and mustered courage enough to walk up to the horse and take hold of the reins. While doing so I touched the rider's hands, which were cold as ice. I tried to get him off the saddle, but was of no use. His legs were out of the irons and wound tightly round the mare. I had to cut the reins from the grip of his fingers. I packed him into the horse when sunrise came and led him into Tambo, where I found he was well known as a digger. He had not out thence that morning—after dinner nearly a bottle of brandy—to go to a place distant about forty miles, and I was only twelve miles from the township when he paid his ill-timed visit. There was no doctor within 200 miles at that time. However, they held a kind of inquest, at which the F. M. talked learnedly of muscular contraction and sunstroke, and was puzzled to decide whether the brandy had anything to do with it, as he could swear from his own experience, that the liquor was first-class. He praised me more than I deserved, for I had half a mind to run away at first. When I am camped out even now alone strange thoughts of that nocturnal horseman come into my head. If any one had told such a story to me I should hardly have credited it. I mean that a man should stick to his horse in that way without any other help than his own saddle straps afforded. His little mare was very quiet, though, and was evidently attracted by the sound of my horse bells.—New South Wales letter.

Special to the Gazette.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 17.—The British schooner, Weathergauge, with stock and ten passengers, bound from Omoos for Belize, was sunk by a whirlwind off Calron's Point on the night of December 31. Captain Alvarez with the mate and two passengers clung to the masts and were saved, while the others were drowned. The schooner went down bow foremost.

MADISON'S POSTMASTER.

Why Keyes was Not Nominated.

WASHINGTON, January 16.—The Wisconsin papers seem to have fallen into error relative to the Madison postoffice matter. The facts were these: The Senators had nothing to do with the matter. Mr. Caswell recommended the appointment of Mr. Keyes simply because he had the biggest petition. Then it was found that under an old executive order Mr. Keyes could not be postmaster and a member of the Legislature at the same time. He could take his choice, and resign either one he chose. He decided he could not resign from the Legislature. The postmaster general had no discretion in the matter, as will be shown by the following letter to Mr. Caswell:

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Sir: Your inquiry in regard to how long a postmaster can hold the office of postmaster after the acceptance by him of the office of a representative in a State legislature has been considered. I have the honor to call your attention to the executive order in regard to United States officers holding State and municipal offices, issued by President Grant January 17, 1873. It is found on pages 321 and 322, Postal Laws and Regulations, edition of 1874, and it contains the following language: "And further, that the acceptance or continued holding of any State, Territorial, or municipal office, whether elective or by appointment, by any person holding civil offices as aforesaid, under the government of the United States, other than judicial offices, under the constitution of the United States, will be deemed a vacation of the federal office held by such person, and will be taken to be and will be treated as a resignation by such federal officer of his commission or appointment in the service of the United States."

Under this order, the moment a postmaster accepts such an office a vacancy has actually occurred. Of course, it remains for the President, and not for the department, when the vacancy shall be filled. Very respectfully,

FRANK HATTON,

First Assistant Postmaster General.

The Hon. L. B. Caswell.
MADISON, Wis., Jan. 16.—From letters received here to-day it looks as though Keyes' application for reappointment as Postmaster of Madison has been finally rejected by President Arthur. Caswell notifies the various applicants—Keyes, Frank, and Bryant—that the President has directed him (Caswell) to send in some other than Keyes. Caswell accordingly notifies all concerned of the President's order, so that they may proceed to get up a petition. Keyes said, some time ago, that if he did not get the post office another term his assistant Helm, would. Nevertheless, it is stated that Caswell will not recommend Helm and that the choice lies between Frank and Bryant, with chances favoring Frank.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

LANSING, Ia., Jan. 16.—The chief particulars of the wreck of passenger No. 9 on the Dubuque division at Bridge 99, three miles above New Albion, to-day about 12 noon, are as follows: The smoking and ladies cars were precipitated down a twenty-foot embankment owing to the breaking of a wheel, and the occupants were all more or less injured, some seriously. One death—that of a 2-year-old child—has occurred, and it is feared that several others are fatally injured—among the latter a Mr. Erickson, merchant, of Spring Grove, Minn. All told there were twenty-three injured. Conductor Wolcott, Superintendent Jenkins, and Sprague's Georgia Minstrels shared in the disaster. The two former escaped without serious injuries, and the latter braced up sufficiently to fulfill their engagement here to-night. The train was running at a speed of only about fifteen miles an hour, and no blame is attached to any one concerned. The infant of Mrs. G. Cavanaugh, Millston Wis. is dead.

Answer This.

Did you ever know any person to be ill without inaction of the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, or did you ever know one who was well when either was obstructed or inactive; and did you ever know or hear of any case of the kind that Hop Bitters would not cure? Ask your neighbor the same question.

"HANGING" THE JURY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Among the "on dills" in connection with the Guteau trial is the prediction that Jurymen Bright will "hang the jury" on the ground that Guteau is insane. Bright's father was for some years an inmate of the government asylum for the insane here, and died in that institution. The same authority avers that the son has always been considered by his intimates, a "very peculiar man."

MONEY MAY SAVE HIM.

MILWAUKEE, January 16.—Gottlieb Engel, the prominent and wealthy young lawyer who was arrested on a charge of forging papers to the extent of about $10,000, some time ago, had a preliminary examination on one of the courts to-day, and was held to answer in the sum of $1,000. Engel's rich relatives are doing everything to prevent prosecution.

Poverty and Distress.

That poverty which produces the greatest distress is not of the purse but of the blood. Deprived of its richness it becomes scant and watery, a condition termed anemia in medical writings. Given this condition, and scrofulous swellings and sores, general and nervous debility, loss of flesh and appetite, weak lungs, throat disease, spitting of blood and consumption, are among the common results. If you are a sufferer from this, poor blood employ Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," which enriches the blood and cures these grave affections. Is more nutritive than cod liver oil, and is harmless in any condition of the system, yet powerful to cure. By druggists.

MILWAUKEE EXPOSITION.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 16.—At a meeting of the exposition directors held to-night, R. D. Torrey, of Oshkosh, farmer, manager of the Northern Wisconsin exposition association, was chosen general manager to succeed E. W. Hincks, resigned.

Universal Appreciation.

By the community at large has been given to BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. No instance is known where dissatisfaction has been manifested by their use, or where might not benefit followed their administration. Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents.

SUICIDE.

ATLANTA, January 16.—William H. Locke, postmaster at Enfield, and arrested on account of irregularities in his accounts, filled himself in jail at Chester, S. C.

Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are sugar coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtues being thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. No cheap wooden or paste-board boxes. By druggists.

Inauguration Days.

There seems to be a general belief that Gen. Garfield was the first of our Presidents to go into office on a Friday. He was really the third, both John Quincy Adams and Franklin Pierce having had that distinction. To settle the matter we print the list of inauguration days, premising that Washington was not sworn in until April 30, 1789, and that when the 4th of March comes on a Sunday the ceremonies take place the next day:

George Washington	Wednesday, March 4, 1789.
John Adams	Monday, March 4, 1797.
Thomas Jefferson	Monday, March 4, 1801.
James Madison	Monday, March 4, 1809.
James Monroe	Monday, March 4, 1817.
James Madison	Monday, March 4, 1817.
John Quincy Adams	Monday, March 4, 1825.
Andrew Jackson	Monday, March 4, 1829.
Andrew Jackson	Monday, March 4, 1837.
Martin Van Buren	Monday, March 4, 1837.
Wm. Henry Harrison	Thursday, March 4, 1841.
John Tyler	Sunday, April 4, 1841.
James K. Polk	Friday, March 4, 1845.
Zachary Taylor	Sunday, March 4, 1849.
Millard Fillmore	Wednesday, July 10, 1850.
Franklin Pierce	Wednesday, March 4, 1853.
Abraham Lincoln	Monday, March 4, 1861.
Andrew Johnson	Saturday, April 15, 1865.
Ulysses S. Grant	Thursday, March 4, 1869.
Ulysses S. Grant	Tuesday, March 4, 1873.
Rutherford B. Hayes	Sunday, March 4, 1877.

Superstition About Days.

Friday is universally regarded as a fatal day, and this ill-repute attaches to it throughout the world. Among seamen the prejudice against the day is intense. In order to counteract this feeling in some manner, an English ship-builder once built a vessel which was begun and finished on Friday, and named "The Friday." It was launched on Friday, also sailed on Friday, but, as if fate had so decreed, it was never heard of more.

But the superstition in regard to days is not confined to Friday—every day in the week is under the influence of good or evil omens. There are many rhymes embodying the particular phases of good or evil which underlie certain events on certain days, of which the following specimens will suffice:

Sunday's child never lacks in place;
Monday's child is fair in face;
Tuesday's child is full of grace;
Wednesday's child is sad and sad;
Thursday's child is loving and giving;
Friday's child is loving and giving;
And Saturday's child shall work for his living.

Sneezes on a Monday, you sneeze for danger;
Sneezes on a Tuesday, you kiss a stranger;
Sneezes on a Wednesday, you sneeze for a letter;
Sneezes on a Thursday, you sneeze for a letter;
Sneezes on a Friday, you sneeze to your sorrow;
Sneezes on Saturday, your sweetheart to-morrow
Sneezes on Sunday, your safety seek.

Cut your nail on Monday, you cut them for new;
Cut them on Tuesday, a pair of new shoes;
Cut them on Wednesday, you cut them for health;
Cut them on Thursday, you cut them for a letter;
Cut them on Friday, you cut them for your sorrow;
Cut them on Saturday, a journey you'll go;
Cut them on Sunday, you cut them for evil.
For all the week long you'll be ruled by the devil.

Couldn't Feel at Home.

"Stranger, have yer got some bitin' whisky, suthin' that takes the innards right by the collar, and makes a man right he's brillin' for an hour after-ward?" asked a gentleman in a latter-day suit and a coon-skin cap, at a fashionable Brooklyn bar yesterday.

"I think I've got what you want," said the barkeeper. "Try this."

The stranger smelled it and shook his head dolefully.

"Do ye think this would make a man dig up his dead enemies and lick 'em over again?" he asked. "Would a slug of this pizen get a fellow to induce his mother to murder his wife, and then run for Sheriff, so as to hang the old woman for the crime?"

"I don't know about that," said the barkeeper. "It's pretty strong fluid."

"I know. But it is strong enough to make a man rob his own daughter and then lick the daylight out of her for losin' her money? Would it be what you would use if you wanted to salt your wife down and deal her out in a boarding house for boned turkey, extra prime? Would you drink it if you felt like burnin' down a church full of children so as to get the nails out of their boots? That's the kind of liquor I want."

"Here's some terrible bad whisky, if that's what you are after," said the barkeeper, putting out another bottle.

Again the stranger smelled and shook his head sadly.

"I'm surprized at yer, barkeep. Yer don't understand the finer feelin's. I want suthin' that would make me rob the donation box of an orphan asylum. Suthin' that would make me kick a sick woman overboard and pound her with a board against it. I want liquor that makes a fellow bury his mother alive and plow her under for fertilizer. Suthin' that would make a man set his children to stealin' so he could give 'em away and get witnesses' fees for conviction 'em. Have yer got anything of that sort?"

"That's the worst I've got," said the horrified barkeeper. "You can take it or leave it."

"The facts is," explained the stranger, as he poured down half a pint of the material without a shudder: "The facts is, that I live in Dakota, and I was feelin' homesick. So I thought if I could get a taste of the genuine old stuff it would raise my spirits. But that isn't the whisky I wanted. This makes me feel like lendin' money, and it don't do me no good. Good-by, barkeep."

And the homesick stranger turned mournfully away.—Brooklyn Eagle.

In the Australian Bush.

I was terribly frightened one night in Queensland by a dead man riding up to my camp-fire at midnight. I was quite alone. I heard my horses neighing and another answering in the Malaga bushes, so I got up and put wood on, making a bright blaze, and presently into the circle of light came a horseman, bending over his pommel, with his large straw hat slouched over his eyes. I took my revolver off my saddle and sung out: "Good-night, mate! You travel late. Will you have a drink of tea?"

Not a word of answer. Just then my two dogs, who were sniffling about, set up such a terrible cry it made me jump again. After a bit I began to open my eyes to the state of affairs and mustered courage enough to walk up to the horse and take hold of the reins. While doing so I touched the rider's hands, which were cold as ice. I tried to get him off the saddle, but it was of no use. His legs were out of the irons and would tightly round the mane. I had to cut the reins from the grip of his fingers. I packed him on the horse when sunrise came and led him into Tambo, where I found he was well known as a digger. He had set out thence that morning—after drinking nearly a bottle of brandy—to go to a place distant about forty miles, and I was only twelve miles from the township when he paid his ill-timed visit. There was no doctor within 200 miles at that time. However, they held a kind of inquest, at which the P. M. talked learnedly of muscular contraction and sunstroke, and was puzzled to decide whether the brandy had anything to do with it, as he could swear from his own experience that the liquor was first-class. He praised me more to run away at first. When I am camped out even now alone strange thoughts of that nocturnal horseman come into my head. If any one had told such a story to me I should hardly have credited it. I mean that a man should stick to his horse in that way without any other help than his saddle straps afforded. His little mare was very quiet, though, and was evidently attracted by the sound of my horse bells.—New South Wales letter.

The college literary societies held their jubilee sessions at college chapel on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of last week.

OROPHILAN LYCEUM.

The house came to order at the call of the president, G. M. Henderson, and after prayer by Rev. E. M. Dunn, the following programme was presented:

Music—Quartet, Misses Goodrich and Clarke, and Messrs. Anderson and Brown.

President's Address—A. M. Henderson. His introductory remarks were novel and appropriate. The address was a thoughtful, argumentative production, carefully written, but delivered with too much hesitation.

Music—"Robinson Crusoe," quartet. Oration—"Beauty," G. R. Boss.

The speaker did not have his subject thoroughly committed. His oration was gracefully written and contained much good thought.

Oration—"Mohammed," C. J. Rollis. This gentleman has a good stage presence, and his delivery is effective, but rather marred by imperfect articulation. His oration was well written, and exhibited a careful study of the subject. His gestures were excellent.

Music, duet—"Fa Away," Miss Dell Burdick and D. F. Brown.

Oration—"The Necessary Man," W. J. Fowle.

His effort was thoughtful, and had the merit of novelty. His delivery lacked in vigor, and was not studied.

Orophilan Standard—C. A. Armstrong.

This editorial was graphic in style and fresh in thought. The contributions were of the character usually found in society periodicals. His clippings were excellent and the locals crisp, but too personal.

Music—"Uddee"—quartet. Oration—"Cromwell"—R. Barless.

This speaker has a pleasant and good style of delivery, being unaffected. His production was a thoughtful treatment of the history of the puritan hero.

Music—"Good Night"—quartet. PHILOMATHEAN SOCIETY.

The President, M. T. Cole, called to order, and the following program was presented:

Music—Quadrille—orchestra, Messrs. Saunders and Thompson, violins; Davis, cornet; Maxson, flute; and Bennett, bass.

Prayer—Rev. E. M. Dunn. Music—Solo—Mary J. Haven.

Oration—"Foreign Emigration"—J. H. Smart.

A brief production on a practical topic, and very well delivered, despite a lack of preparation.

Music—waltz—orchestra. Oration—"Civil Service Reform"—W. J. Skelton.

A clean, cut production, that exhibited a careful study of the topic. His delivery is unaffected and easy, but was impaired by lack of preparation.

Oration—"The Present Age"—A. G. Dunn.

This gentleman is a fluent speaker, and his delivery is pleasing and gestures graceful. His production was gracefully written, and the favorable aspect of the present age as contrasted with its predecessors, well brought out.

Music—alto horn solo—C. M. Post. Philomathean Independent, W. S. Pember and S. D. Downie.

Mr. Pember's editorial was crisp and novel in the close attention of his hearers. The contents of this number were of the usual character, and full of spicy local hits and personal items, with more solid matter than is usually presented in the Independent.

Music—Orchestra. Oration—"The Western man," H. L. Emerson.

A well written effort, showing thought and fertility of expression. Mr. Emerson is a good speaker, his enunciation and articulation being excellent, his style of delivery unaffected and pleasing.

Oration—"As it is," C. A. Smart.

This production was of a high musical tone, and ably written. His valedictory remarks were in good taste and his delivery accurate and effective.

Music—Quartet—"Farewell Farewell," Messrs. Cole, Post, Allen and Dunn.

thoughtful treatment of a topic that has not lost its interest from frequent airings; many of the thoughts were new and the arguments well pointed.

Music, quartet—"The Night Bird Whisper Soft and Light," Misses Goodrich and Clarke, and Messrs. Williams and Anderson.

The music for the above entertainments was all furnished by home talent, and received the approbation of those who listened to it, but being incomplete to make an artistic criticism, do not attempt it.

J. J. Ordway, of Chicago, Rev. A. H. Main, of Ashaway, R. I., Rev. S. H. Babcock, of Albion, and Rev. O. U. Whitford, of Walworth, were in town Thursday.

Dr. J. H. Burdick, of Utica, was here on professional duties last Wednesday.

James Dunn and wife, of Madison, called here last week by the illness and death of their sister.

Among the graduates and former students of college, who were in attendance at the jubilee sessions, were Misses K. M. Barless, M. M. McLean, E. E. Whitaker, E. F. Chamberlain, J. F. Johnson, Lizzie Gillies, Jennie and Maggie McFarland, and Messrs. L. McLean, J. Earl, C. M. Morse, J. H. Snow, R. Barless, W. J. McNece, and Prof. J. N. Humphrey.

Orin Sprague, Sr. had some friends to take tea with him last week and served a dish that had the flavor of antiquity, viz. baked Peacock, on information says that it was very delicious and repast and speaks in terms of high praise of the gastronomic qualities of this bird of rare plumage.

J. B. Anderson shipped five ear loads of grain last week despite the unfavorable condition of the roads.

W. H. Borden has received forty ear loads of coal since the first of August and has sold six ear loads in addition to Edgerton dealers during the same time.

USEFUL HINTS.

To PURIFY a sink or drain: Dissolve one-half pound of copperas in two gallons of water. Four half of this liquid one day and the other half next.

COAL oil will take out ink stains, even after they have been washed with soap. Pour on the oil, and rub the spot in the hands; if it does not come out at the first application, try more; the second application will remove it entirely.

Take a wineglass of cologne and another of lemon juice, then scrape two cakes of brown Windsor soap to a powder, and mix well in a bowl. When hard this will be found both pleasant and efficacious in rendering the hands smooth and white.

An experienced book man says that books should never be allowed to get really cold, for when a thaw comes and the weather sets in warm, the air, laden with damp, penetrates the most recesses, and working its way between the volumes, and even between the leaves, deposits upon their cold surface its moisture. A steam-heated library is do not favor a glass-doored bookcase as a preservative of books, as the dampness will penetrate in spite of the glass, and the absence of ventilation will assist in the formation of mold. Ornamental brass wire work is recommended instead of glass.

Very pretty vases can be made from long-necked bottles as follows: Saturate candle-wicking or string with kerosene, wrap it around the bottle twice, and tie it to the neck to be broken off. Light the wick all around, and in a few minutes a cracking noise will be heard, which tells you the bottle is severed in two, and will leave you an article shaped like a tumbler. It is preferable to have them as long as possible, unless you desire more than one. If so, two tall ones and one about two-thirds their size make a pretty set. Cut out bands of gold paper and paste around the neck of the top, and bottom, also a circle for the center. Or, should you desire, they can be painted any color and ornamented with gilt stars and embossed pictures, after the manner of decorating pottery.

Use water of about the same temperature as the room plants are growing in. Even if anybody tells you that you can grow them better or bloom them quicker by setting their pots in ice-cold water with hot water, do not practice any such nonsense. In applying water, do not pour it on in the middle of the pot but near the side of the pot instead, and as far from the stem as you can. The stream may be as large as you please, providing you pour out gently. Always use soft water if you can. Wash the leaves, so as to remove dust, dirt and insects, will promote health; therefore, do it often. Use a sponge, clean water and a little soap, and as you finish washing each plant, shower it with clear water. In washing plants lay them on their sides, so as to keep the dirt and insects from the pots and the water from saturating the soil. If there should be a crust of honey-dew or "black stuff" on the leaves or stems, do not scrub it off, but rather keep those leaves and stems thoroughly washed with three or five hours, then wipe off with your spoon easily.

In this way, stubborn cases yield easily.

MILTON.

The college literary societies held their jubilee holiday sessions at college chapel on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of last week.

OROPHILIAN LYCEUM.

The house came to order at the call of the president, G. M. Henderson, and after prayer by Rev. E. M. Dunn, the following programme was presented:

Music—Quartet, antheum, Misses Goodrich and Clarke, and Messrs. Anderson and Brown.

President's Address—"New Wine Skins for New Wine," G. M. Henderson. His introductory remarks were novel and appropriate. The address was a thoughtful, argumentative production, and gracefully written, but delivered with too much hesitation.

Music—"Robinson Crusoe," quartet. Oration—"Beauty," G. R. Boss.

The speaker did not have his subject thoroughly committed. His oration was gracefully written and contained much good thought.

Oration—"Mohammed," C. J. Rollis. This gentleman has a good stage presence, and his delivery was effective, but rather marred by imperfect articulation. His oration was well written, and exhibited a careful study of the subject. His gestures were excellent.

Music, duet—"Far Away," Miss Dell Burdick and D. F. Brown.

Oration—"The Necessary Man," W. J. Fowle.

His effort was thoughtful, and had the merit of novelty. His delivery lacked in vigor, and was not studied.

Orophilian Standard—C. A. Armstrong.

His editorial was graphic in style and fresh in thought. The contributions were of the character usually found in society periodicals. His clippings were excellent and the locals crisp, but too personal.

Music—"Updoo," quartet. Oration—"Cromwell," R. Barless.

This speaker has a pleasing and good style of delivery, being unaffected. His production was a thoughtful treatment of the history of the puritan hero.

Music—"Good Night"—Quartet. PHILOMATEAN SOCIETY.

The President, M. T. Cole, called to order, and the following program was presented:

Music—Quadrille—orchestra, Messrs. Saunders and Thompson, violins; Davis, cornet; Maxson, flute; and Bennett, bass.

Prayer—Rev. E. M. Dunn.

Music—solo—Mary J. Haven.

Oration—"Foreign Emigration"—J. H. Smart.

A brief production on a practical topic and very well delivered, despite a lack of preparation.

Music—waltz—orchestra. Oration—"Civil Service Reform"—W. J. Seaton.

A clean, cut production, that exhibited a careful study of the topic. His delivery is unaffected and easy, but was impaired by lack of preparation.

Oration—"The Present Age"—A. C. Dann.

This gentleman is a fluent speaker, and his delivery is pleasing and gestures graceful. His production was gracefully written, and the favorable aspect of the present age as contrasted with its predecessors, well brought out.

Music—alto solo—C. M. Post.

Philomathean Independent, W. S. Pember and S. D. Downie. Mr. Pember's editorial was crisp and novel in thought. He is a good reader and held the close attention of his hearers. The contents of this number were of the usual character, and full of spicy local hits and personal items, with more solid matter than is usually presented in the Independent.

Music—Orchestra. Oration—"The Western man," H. L. Emerson.

A well written oration, showing thought and fertility of expression. Mr. Emerson is a good speaker, his enunciation and articulation being excellent, his style of delivery unaffected and pleasing.

Oration—"As it is," C. A. Smart.

This production was of a high musical tone, and ably written. His valedictory remarks were in good taste and his delivery accurate and effective.

Music—Quartet—"Philo Farewell," Messrs. Cole, Post, Allen and Dunn.

thoughtful treatment of a topic that has not lost its interest from frequent arming; many of the thoughts were new and the arguments used well pointed.

Music, quartet—"The Night Bird Whisper Soft and Light," Misses Goodrich and Clarke, and Messrs. Williams and Anderson.

The music for the above entertainments was furnished by home talent, and, except the contribution of the quartet, who listened to it, but being incompetent to make an artistic criticism, do not attempt it.

—J. J. Ordway, of Chicago, Rev. A. H. Main, of Ashaway, R. I., Rev. S. H. Babcock, of Albion, and Rev. O. U. Whitford, of Watlyorth, were in town Tuesday.

—Dr. J. H. Bardick, of Utica, was here on professional duties last Wednesday.

—James Dunn and wife, of Madison were called here last week by the illness and death of their sister.

—Among the graduates and former students of college, who were in attendance at the jubilee sessions, were Misses K. M. Barless, M. M. McElay, E. E. Whitaker, E. F. Chamberlin, J. F. Johnson, Lizzie Gillies, Jennie and Maggie McFarland, and Messrs. D. Mc Lay, T. Earl, C. M. Morse, J. H. Snow, R. Barless, W. J. McNeel, and Prof. J. N. Humphrey.

—Orrin Sprague, Sr. had some friends to take tea with him last week and served a dish that had the flavor of antiquity, viz. baked Peacock, our informant says that it was a very toothsome repast and speaks in terms of high praise of the gastronomic qualities of this bird of rare plumage.

—J. B. Anderson shipped five carloads of grain last week despite the unfavorable condition of the roads.

—W. H. Borden has received forty car loads of coal since the first of August and has sold six car loads in addition to Edgerton dealers during the same time.

—Below zero Saturday morning, a change of forty degrees in twenty-four hours. The first zero day of the winter and it made ice dealers happy.

A change of time took effect on the St. Paul road Sunday. The day passenger train going west now leaves at 4:55 p. m. Night passenger East at 12:55 a. m. Trains leave for Janesville at 1:06 3:40 4:56 and 6:45 p. m. Arrive from Janesville at 9:40 a. m. 1:35 3:25, 4:56 and 8:25 p. m.

—Miss Carrie Plumb, daughter of J. C. Plumb, who has been sick for some weeks, died Saturday afternoon. Her death was caused by Pyemia in blood poisoning. Deceased was a talented young lady and will be greatly missed in the social circle, where she had the respect and esteem of all. The family have the heart-felt sympathy of our community in their great loss.

The funeral services took place at the Congregational Church Monday afternoon, Rev. Hullinger officiating, and were largely attended.

—Frank Hall has returned from his western trip.

—Postmaster Green has been on the sick list for a few days, but expects to be able to attend to office business this week. W. W. Clarke has been assisting the deputy P. M. during the absence of Mr. Green.

MADE FROM HARMLESS MATERIAL, and adapted to the needs of fading and falling hair, Parker's Hair Balsam has taken the first rank as an elegant and reliable hair restorative.

FOOTVILLE.

—Those who had tobacco to ship have been improving the good roads of the past week by hauling it to town.

—Mrs. Brown, whose health has been quite poor for a long time, died suddenly after a severe illness of a few days. The remains were taken to Sycamore, Illinois, for burial.

—Elder Milton Wells and family have moved to this place from Center, occupying part of the house with Mr. Wiggins.

—The oyster supper at Mr. Strong's last Friday night was well attended. All report a good supper, abundance of music and a good time generally.

—Hale Howe has gone to Illinois for a short sojourn among relatives.

—The report that Monte, oldest son of O. F. Wallihan, had his leg amputated, is not true, and his many friends are glad to hear that he is improving.

—If some enterprising person would build a few dwelling houses in this village, they would find plenty to occupy them, judging from the demand lately.

—A new recruit for the Republican party is an eight pound boy at Henry Howe's.

MANY MISERABLE PEOPLE drag themselves about with failing strength, feeling that they are steadily sinking into their graves, when, by using Parker's Ginger Tonic, they would find a cure commencing with the first dose, and vitality and strength surely coming back to them. See other column.

BOLDEN SELLECK & CO., Chicago, sell the best and cheapest Car Starter made. With it one man can move a freight car.

USEFUL HINTS.

TO PURIFY A SINK OR DRAIN: Dissolve one-half pound of copperas in two gallons of water. Pour half of this liquid one day and the other half next.

COAL oil will take out ink stains, even after they have been washed with soap. Pour on the oil, and rub the spot in the hands; if it does not remove it the first application, try more; the second application will remove it entirely.

TAKE a wineglass of cologne and another of lemon juice, then scrape two cakes of brown Windsor soap to a powder, and mix well in a mold. When hard this will be found both pleasant and efficacious in rendering the hands smooth and white.

An experienced book man says that books should never be allowed to get really cold, for when a thaw comes and the weather sets in warm, the air, laden with damp, penetrates the inmost recesses, and working its way between the volumes, and even between the leaves, deposits upon their cold surface its moisture. A steam-heated library is said to be safest for books. Librarians do not favor a glass-doored bookcase as a preservative of books, as the dampness will penetrate in spite of the glass, and the absence of ventilation will assist in the formation of mold. Ornamental brass wire work is recommended instead of glass.

VERY pretty vases can be made from long-necked bottles as follows: Saturate candle-wicking or string with kerosene, wrap it around the bottle twice, and tie it, placing it where you want the neck of the bottle to be broken off. Light the wick all around, and in a few minutes a cracking noise will be heard, which tells you the bottle is severed in two, and will leave you an artistic vase, like a tumbler. It is preferable to have them as long as possible, unless you desire more than one. If so, two tall ones and one about two-thirds their size make a pretty set. Cut out bands of gold paper and paste around near the top and bottom, also a circle for the center. Or, should you desire, they can be painted any color and ornamented with gilt stars and embossed pictures, after the manner of decorating pottery.

Use water of about the same temperature as the room plants are growing in. Even if anybody tells you that you can grow them better or bloom them quicker by setting their pots in saucers filled with hot water, do not practice any such nonsense. In applying water, do not pour it on in the middle of the pot just at the base of the stem, but near the side of the pot instead, and as far from the stem as you can. The stream may be as large as you please, providing you pour out gently. Always use soft water if you can. Washing the leaves, so as to remove dust, dirt and insects, will promote health; therefore, do it often. Use a sponge, clean water and a little soap, and, as you finish washing each plant, shower it with clear water. In washing plants lay them on their sides, so as to keep the dirt and insects from the pots and the water from saturating the soil. If there should be a crust of honey-dew or "black stuff" on the leaves or stems, do not scrub it off, but rather keep those leaves and stems thoroughly wet for three or five hours, then wipe off with your sponge. In this way, stubborn cases yield easily.
